DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 8 is objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "seals of any type can be used" renders the claim indefinite, because it is unclear which seals can be used and which ones cannot. Appropriate correction is required.
3. Claim 9 is objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "other types of mechanical connections" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear to what extent is a mechanical connection. Appropriate correction is required.
4. Claim 10 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. The applicant only describes what the plate can be used for and does not further limit the structure of the plate.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-6 and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Childress U.S. Patent 5,972,524. Childress shows all of the claimed subject matter of a tube plate in Figures 1-2.

Regarding claim 1, a tube plate comprising a plurality of components 12 & 14 are produced separately, and are connected one another subsequently by means of mechanical joints 16, in order to form the plate.

Regarding claim 2, the components 12 & 14 which form the plate are joined to one another by means of a plurality of mechanical connections 16, which join the respective components to one another.

Regarding claim 3, the components 12 & 14 which form the tube plate are joined to one another by means of a plurality of pins 16 which are inserted in corresponding holes provided in the respective components 12 & 14.

Regarding claim 4, at least one of the components has a series of projections (layers of 14) which are inserted in corresponding cavities in the respective component, such as to enable the pins 16 to complete the connection between the components.

Regarding claim 5, the connection of the components is completed by means of welded connections between the head of the pins and at least one of the components. (col. 3, lines 5-10).

Regarding claim 6, the connection of the components is completed by means of welded connections between the components. (col. 3, lines 5-10).

Regarding claim 8, in order to guarantee the sealing, seals of any type can be used. (here the tight fit seals the two components).

Regarding claim 9, the mechanical connections between the components of the plate can be selected from amongst braces, screws, wedges, cams, and other types of mechanical connection. (here the pins fall under the other types of mechanical connections.)

Regarding claim 10, the tube plate can be used for tube bundles for chemical reactors, petrochemical reactors, refinery reactors and heat exchangers in general.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Childress. Childress does not show the plate components being semicircular. A change in the shape of a prior art device is a design consideration within the skill of the art. In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966).

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Braxell U.S. Patent 4,373,829 and Ezumi et al. U.S. Patent 6,530,713 show similar inventions.
